UNCLE SAM'S GIANT COUNT BEGINS TO-DAY

Census Takers Start Visits to Some 30,000,000 Homes

HOOPER AMONG FIRST Citizens Warned to Be on the Lookout for Imposters and Sneak Thieves

Washington, April 2.—(UP)—The census begins today.

Census Bureau agents have started out along the long trail which will take them, pad and pencil in hand, to the door-steps of some 30,000,000 homes.

Their task is to gather data for the 15th American decennial census, an enumeration which will provide the first authentic population count in 10 years and the first available chart of the course commodities take from raw material to the home.

President Hoover was among the first to be questioned. He has announced that he, as "the head of the family," will answer questions about the White House family's ages, real estate, condition of employment and so on.

Census Director Wm. E. Stewart, in a last-minute talk over the National Broadcasting network last night, heralded the coming of the census enumerators and warned householders to beware of imposters.

"Do not hesitate for a minute to ask the census-taker to show his credentials if you suspect that he is not a bona fide enumerater," Stewart advised. "There have been instances of people claiming to be census-takers in order to collect information for private purposes or to gain admission to homes for purposes of robbery."

Several innovations appear in this year's census questions. Everyone will be asked whether he is employed and whether he rents or owns his home.

Enumerators will visit more than 8,500,000 farms seeking agricultural data. They will also collect data to show the year's transactions in all industrial and business institutions.

Local Legion Asks Others to Be Guests Thursday Evening

The regular monthly meeting of the Armstrong Post of the American Legion will be one of special importance, as it will commemorate the sixteenth anniversary of the World War, April 7th, 1919.

The Armstrong Post has prospered this year and is now the leading post in Armstrong County and has a larger membership than those of adjoining counties.

Post Commander Samuel F. Young has invited the veterans of the Spanish American war, the Civil war, and veterans of any other war in which the United States took part, also any veterans of any of the Allied Armies who might be living here to attend this meeting as guests of the post.

After the business session moving pictures will be shown, and the usual lunch will be served. The Post meets at 8 p. m., Thursday, April 3rd.

STOCKS

New York, April 2.—(UP)—Bullish tendency continued to manifest itself today and stocks opened fractions to more than a point higher on heavy volume of business.

Blocks of 5,000 to 15,000 shares appeared in profusion on the market, indicating returns on a larger scale of the small operators. Professionals were again at work in Rialto Corporation and that issue made a spectacular opening on 15,000 shares at 36 1/2 up 1/2 and a new high for the year.

Banking orders in leaders represented new issues of bonds, U. S. Steel opened 5,000 at 47 1/2 up 1/2; General Motors 5,000 at 49 1/2 up 1/2; Curtiss Wright 10,000 at 13 1/2 up 1/2; General American Tank 7,000 at 11 1/2 up 1/4 and a new high for the year; Amacross 5,000 at 20 1/2 up 1/2 and new high for 1929; American Radiator 5,200 at 27 1/2 up 1/2; Consolidated Copper 6,000 at 30 up 1/2; Commonwealth & Southern 5,000 at 10 1/2; and Kennecott 5,000 at 80 up 1/2.

A feature of the opening was strength in copper shares. Much bullish talk has been heard on this group of late despite the possibility of a cut in price of the metal. Today's rise following declaration of regular dividends by Cerro de Pasco and a statement by an Illinois American Smelting that foreign business would equal last year in the copper industry.

Dr. McBride Tells House Committee Wets' Aim Is Return Of Saloons

Washington, April 2.—(UP)—Declaring that Prohibition is a success, is popular and can be enforced, Dr. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said in a statement read to the House Judiciary committee today that the answer to "this wet frenzy" in Congress should be "speedy enactment into law of the administration's program with such appropriations as will give Prohibition a chance."

McBride charged wets with lack of sportsmanship, said the agitation for a change emanated mostly from large cities, that the 18th Amendment in its 10 years trial has demonstrated that the people are not in favor of the liquor problem, that people are not clamoring for repeal or modification of the wet laws, and that the wets have not offered a constructive program. Their real aim is a return of the old saloon, he said.

McBride said seven House resolutions proposing regulated liquor sale are based on the "false and foolish assumption" that the problem can be solved by selling and using more liquor.

Appealing to the wets and the press, McBride said the problems of Prohibition enforcement will largely disappear "if the mighty press will give its help to the constitution and laws to make it effective as they did in the days of the wet and such able wets as Mr. LaGuardia (Rep., N. Y.) will give their abilities of leadership in behalf of this law."

"Prohibition can be enforced and is being better enforced as time goes on. Not suppression, but education, observance and enforcement is the solution of the liquor problem—the only answer to the alcoholic liquor question," he declared.

Charging that opponents of Prohibition were divided and without any constructive proposals to replace the law, he said. McBride said seven House resolutions proposing regulated liquor sale are based on the "false and foolish assumption" that the problem can be solved by selling and using more liquor.

Taking up the assertion that a majority of the people are behind the movement for modification of Prohibition, McBride declared that dry laws have behind them the unmistakable and repeatedly expressed will of the American people.

Statistics show that the dry death from alcoholism has decreased since prohibition, McBride said, adding that speakings that infested every community in saloon days are being eliminated.

In his statement, McBride, who has faced a congressional committee but who may next week be called before the Judiciary committee, urged the Judiciary committee not to "run up the white flag and trail Old Glory in the dust because a defeated minority falsely says Uncle Sam cannot enforce his laws."

"Prohibition can be enforced," he said, "and is being better enforced as time goes on."

Others who filed statements were E. C. Dinwiddie, superintendent of the National Temperance Bureau; Eugene H. Crawford, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, Board on Temperance and Social Service; Rev. William S. Chace, Superintendent of the International Reform Federation, and Harriet Cherrington of the International League against Alcoholism. The wets were blamed by Pickett for the failure to enforce Prohibition.

"We believe that most of the difficulties attending the enforcement of the Prohibition law are directly due to the character of much of the opposition to it," he said. "If these enemies will cease to advocate selective dilogality and to incite the unthinking and the uninformed to the violation of the law, the government will be able to effect a solution of the problem which will be satisfactory to every reasonable man and woman."

Statements from McBride, Deeds Pickett, Research Secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, and other dry leaders were read into the records.

Washington, April 2.—(UP)—The dry side of the Prohibition case was abruptly closed today with the filing of statements by all the prominent Prohibition leaders here, including Dr. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Wet members of the committee who have stoutly defended their right to cross-examine all the dry witnesses, finally capitulated to an arrangement "in the interest of time" whereby McBride and the others were permitted to testify through written statements.

"Here I have been waiting for ten years to cross-examine the Anti-Saloon league and the prohibitionists, finally capitulated to an arrangement 'in the interest of time' whereby McBride and the others were permitted to testify through written statements."

"I believe England would have been much more efficient if they did not have grog-shops during the war."

Alben pleaded against repeal of state enforcement acts which he said would "lead to nullification."

"It would cost us more millions in income taxes to send Federal officers into states which have no enforcement laws," he said.

tervention of the Federal Government, and Harriet Cherrington of the International League against Alcoholism. The wets were blamed by Pickett for the failure to enforce Prohibition.

GET OLD ROAD IN MANORVILLE READY FOR USE

Will Be Used As a Detour While Ford City Highway is Being Rebuilt

Workmen of the State Highway Department are busy today erecting a road along the approach to the river road in Manorville. The river road is also being scraped and put into good condition as during the construction of the new section of Route 66 from Garretts Run to Ford City, the river road in Manorville through will be used as a detour and it must be in the best condition possible.

Planning of the first section of the tracks of the West Penn Railways Company at their new location, where changes must be made on account of the new road construction, was done at Edgewood. There a large fill was made in the hollow at the Edgewood school. The street railway formerly used a bridge at this place. The tracks were shored over the bridge onto the fill. The old bridge has been taken out and a fill will be made in the old bridge location.

Work of making the fill in the hollow at the lower side of the road near the junction of Route 66 and the Benjamin Franklin highway at Edgewood is also progressing and the tracks can be moved at this point soon.

COMPENSATION CASE TAKEN TO HIGHER COURT

Interesting Claim Filed by Workman is Appealed for Final Decision

One local case, that of Earl Duncan, appellant, against the Orpha Coal Company and the Travelers' Insurance Company, carrier, is listed for argument in Superior Court, which convenes in Pittsburgh Monday, April 14.

The appeal is taken from the judgment of Judge J. Frank Craft, who in an opinion handed down on April 1, 1929, reversed the award of the Workmen's Compensation Board and directed that judgment be entered in favor of the defendant.

Duncan was employed as a hostler to care for mules in the defendant company's mine. On the morning of November 1, 1927, while on his way home from the premises of his employer he was struck in the left eye by a shot fired from a gun in the hands of another which resulted in the destruction of the eye for all industrial purposes.

The referee of the Workmen's Compensation Board concluded that Duncan was actually engaged in furthering the business of his employer at the time of the accident and consequently that he is entitled to compensation.

Judge Craft does not agree with this view and holds that the nature of the work which Duncan was employed was actually performing on the premises, that going to and from the premises cannot be considered as an errand and that claimant was not actually employed in furthering the business of his employer at the time the accident occurred.

BLOODSTAINED ROPE IS FOUND NEAR BODY Pittsburgh, April 2.—(UP)—A heavy rope with a blood-stained noose at one end furnished the first clue today as to how an unidentified man, whose headless and nude body was discovered in a barrel on a hillside in Penn township yesterday, met his death.

The noose was found a few yards from where the body was discovered last night.

It apparently had been used to hang the man from a tree while the killers severed his head from his body.

The dead man's fingerprints, a few blood-soaked burley bags and a Monday afternoon newspaper, stuffed around the body, constituted the only other clues.

Pittsburgh, April 2.—(UP)—The head of the murder victim whose body was found in Penn township yesterday, was found today by Thomas Hestfinger, a Pittsburgh newspaper photographer.

The head was in a burlap sack in a gulley beneath the Lincoln avenue bridge, more than a mile from where the torso was discovered.

Abandoned Car Found In Applewold Contains A Policeman's Outfit

Constable Richardson, of Applewold, Wednesday morning took possession of an Essex coupe which has been abandoned in front of the home of Stanley Penn Hotel, April 2, in Applewold since Sunday. Mr. Stenck first noted the machine Sunday night but thought it was owned by some neighbor or some neighbor's guest and paid little heed to it. However when it was still in the same place on Wednesday he notified Constable Richardson.

The machine bears license plates 9928 and is practically new. Examination by the officer showed the gas tank dry and the battery also dry and exhausted. The car had evidently been driven hard before being abandoned.

Evidence from the property found in the machine would tend to show that it had been owned by a policeman and a pair of heavy wooten mittens were in the coupe.

An effort to locate the owner will be made and to that end notice of the finding of the machine will be broadcast on the teletype of the state wide system operated by the State Police and of which system Kittanning is a receiving station.

Wheat Prices Held Chicago, April 2.—(U. P.)—Wheat continued to hold fractional gains on the Board of Trade at mid-morning after the opening bid on the continued dry weather in the southwest and strong foreign cables had run into heavy profit-taking. It was the opinion of the trade that the late advances had discounted all the unfavorable reports and that the short interest had materially lessened. Trading was active. Corn was steady but firm. Provisions were higher on the advance in the hog market.

BIG TOW OF EQUIPMENT IS EN ROUTE HERE

Steamer Due to Arrive This Afternoon at Site of Dam 7

WORK TO BE HURRIED Derrick Boats Coming to Assist in Construction—Ready Next Fall

The steamer Donald T. Birmingham of the Elzey River Transportation Line, is expected to arrive in the local harbor this afternoon with a tow of equipment for use in the construction of Dam No. 7. The steamer came up the Ohio river from the yards of the Universal Contracting Company at Portsmouth, O., and arrived in Pittsburgh last night.

The tow consists of derrick boats and other floating equipment which will be placed in use and which will hasten the building of the new dam and which will also allow a larger number of men to be employed.

Good progress is now being made on the false work on the dam and it extends out into the river about 50 feet from the east bank at the present. With additional facilities for the handling of piling and driving it, more rapid progress can be made and the work will be speeded up materially.

On the west bank at Lock No. 7 employees of the Federal government are doing considerable work. They have built a set of steps down to the lock and are making preparations for the receiving and hanging of the lock gates and placing the lock handling machinery during the coming summer.

Next fall will find Lock and Dam No. 7 complete in all details and in operation ready for traffic on the river. Lock and Dam No. 8 are also being speeded up with the bettering of the weather and they too should be in use before snow dies this year.

FAVORABLE JAPANESE REPLY IS RECEIVED AT NAVAL PARLEY London, April 2.—(U. P.)—The favorable Japanese reply to Anglo-American propositions for a naval understanding was delivered to the American and British chief delegates today at St. James Palace.

Tsunao Matsudaira, Japanese Ambassador to London, met Prime Minister MacDonald yesterday, on which occasion the Japanese reply to the Anglo-American proposition was delivered to the American and British chief delegates today at St. James Palace.

The Japanese spokesman said it was not likely the Japanese reply to the Anglo-American proposition would be published until the other delegates had discussed it. He said the reply should rightly be treated as "instructions" to the delegation.

Meanwhile, the British cabinet met and it was understood that Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson submitted the draft of the former's reported yesterday, on which he and Arthur Balfour had tentatively agreed with a view to satisfying the French security demands. Briand held a telephone conversation with Premier Andre Tardieu, who is in Paris, and the Star said Tardieu had approved the formula.

It is disclosed by reliable sources that the Japanese reply will be acceptable to the United States and Great Britain.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE GETS OFF TO GOOD START The local Salvation Army drive for raising the budget for 1930 is in full force. The committee in charge is busy making a house to house canvass as well as a canvass of the business section.

Tuesday was the first day of the drive and it is reported to have been very encouraging. The public responded in a very generous manner and the prospects for the campaign "going over the top" are considered bright.

Those in charge express the hope that the people of the community will be interested in the canvass and that they will back it up in every possible way, not only with their contributions, but with their best influence. During the past few months the local corps has been called upon to aid many persons who were in dire need and every case was given prompt attention.

It is the aim of the Army to be of service in whatever way it can, especially among the poor and the unfortunate. To be able to render that service the Army is largely dependent upon the generosity of the public. Captain McCracken in charge of the local corps, puts it this way: "The Army and Almighty God are depending upon you to contribute as you can. The Lord will richly bless you in your contributions to help us make the drive a real success."
