-----

NOTE:

There were two "William Francis Klugh"s in the area at that time.

William Francis Klugh (1847-1897) and Agnes Fairlie (1849-1936), lived in Armstrong County.
William Francis Klugh (1857-1922) and Margaret Irvin (1855-1946), lived in Butler and Clarion Counties.

People are constantly getting the two William F. Klughs mixed up.

-----

More About William Francis Klugh:

Notes for Margaret Irvin:

Margaret is living with her son, Irvin McKinley Klugh as of the 1930 Federal Census. She's 75 years old.

1900 Federal Census says she was born in Oct 1856.
Death Certificate says she was born on Oct 3, 1850, but her last Federal Census report (1940) confirms the 1856 date.

Death Certificate says "Irvin" was her mother's maiden name. That means we don't know her father's surname.

-----

Only reached the 5th grade, as per the 1940 Federal Census.

-----

Lived with her daughter Ida Blanche Klugh Stewart in the Stewart home until her death in 1946.

Notes for Samuel M. Klugh:

Samuel M. Klugh, b.1869, d.1922 - Son of John & Elizabeth Klugh: A forman in a coalmine. The hear-say is that he was killed in a cave-in at the Vogeley (this is the correct spelling, not "Vogley") coal mine in Pennsylvania in 1922, but according to the data at the "Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, Bureau of Archives and History, Pennsylvania State Archives, RG-45, Records of the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries, REGISTERS OF MINE ACCIDENTS FOR THE BITUMINOUS DISTRICTS, 1899-1972. {series #45.15}", he survived the cave-in on March 22, 1922. He may have succumbed later, or there was another cave-in not registered.

 The many residences for Samuel and Stella might be due to the fact that their phone numbers are always listed as "People's Phone" in all the Butler Directories. This suggests they lived either in a hotel or a "welfare" hotel.

Personal Notes for David C. Klugh:

David Carl Klugh is the oldest of four sons of Carl Dean Klugh and Marie Celestia Klugh (Sensenbach). He was born on Wednesday, November 28th 1945 at St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem PA at 3:15 PM. Legend has it that his mother was in labor for over 18 hours. David weighed 8lbs, 9oz and was 21 inches long.

At the time of David's birth, Carl and Marie were living in an apartment at 320 Broad Street in Bethlehem. One of David's earliest memories was when he escaped from the apartment, naked, and had made it out onto Broad Street before mother caught up with him. At the time, Carl had been recently discharged from the USMC, and was pursuing his high school GED and going to school to learn the electricians trade.

David's pre-school childhood was divided between Bethlehem and Butler PA. The habit of relocating started early, as the family moved to Butler in 1947 and then back to Bethlehem in 1949. During this time the family lived in low-cost G.I. housing (908 Sunset Lane in Clearfield Village) that had coal stoves and furnaces, and an icebox in lieu of a refrigerator. Clearfield Village consisted of long concrete block single story row houses. Memories of this era include David and his brother Paul getting into mischief such as going on all day hikes without telling mom, taking apart a fire alarm box "to make the fire engines come", taking clandestine trips to the candy store, and stealing strawberries from a farmer's garden. David also earned his first stitches in his head falling off a coal bin in front of the house. Another vivid memory is rounding up baby brother, who had a habit of wandering about three doors away to a vacant lot where he happily ate fistfuls of dirt. There must have been something in that dirt because Tom is tallest in the family.

In the summer of 1950, David contracted Polio. This was during a time before the Salk vaccine and parents typically dreaded the summer months because that is when the disease struck children. It is only because of the watchful eye of David's grandmother, Francis M. Sensenbach, an R.N. at St. Luke's Hospital, that the symptoms were recognized early and David received immediate treatments that boosted his immune system and prevented major paralysis. David spent that summer at home in bed, under the watchful care of Francis.

In 1952 Carl and Marie became one of the millions of WWII vet families that used the G.I. Bill to buy a home. Their's was $9,000 two-bedroom, one bath duplex at 1572 Valley Road, in a new subdivision called Kaywin, on Bethlehem's west side. Modest by any standards, but after Clearfield Village, David felt as though they had moved into a mansion. In 1955 Carl and Marie divorced, but not before the fourth son Eric Jeffrey Klugh was born. In the summer of 1958, Marie married Charles L. Kramer and they briefly moved to Roanoke VA. The marriage did not work out so Marie and the four boys moved back to Bethlehem in the fall. In 1961, the family moved to Endicott, NY with Harold E. Kabe, who Marie married.

David attended: Calypso elementary school, Nitschman Junior High School, and Broughal Junior High School in Bethlehem; William Fleming High School in Roanoke, VA; and graduated from Union-Endicott High School in Endicott, NY in 1963. David graduated from the University of Washington in 1975 with a B.S. in Geological Oceanography. He also earned a M.S in Educational Technology from National University in 1989.

The day after graduating from high school David joined the Navy and went off to Boot Camp at Great Lakes IL. David found his calling and enjoyed a 22 naval career that included four destroyers and one submarine: USS Claude Jones (DE-1033), USS Conway (DD-507), USS Benjamin Franklin (SSBN-640), USS Barbey (FF-1088), and the USS Leftwich (DD-984). He rose through the ranks from a Seaman Recruit to Lieutenant Commander. He saw combat duty in Viet Nam on the USS Conway and the Persian Gulf on the USS Barbey and USS Leftwich. He made five patrols on the USS Benjamin Franklin, a ballistic missile submarine. David's assignments included: Electronics Technician, Nuclear Reactor Operator, Main Propulsion Assistant, Navigator, Officer Recruiter, and Chief Engineer.

After his retirement from the Navy in 1985, David was a Naval Science Teacher at Pine Forest High School in Pensacola FL, a project manager with ManTech Mathetics, Inc., a director of operations with Person-System Integrated, a graduate assistant at Lehigh University, director of information resources at SGI International, and Vice President of Marketing at STRiCOR, Inc. He is presently self-employed as a business development consultant and as a partner with IARISTO Productions.

David has four children. Two from his marriage to Donna Ann Ledet of Milton, FL: Jennifer Marie Klugh, born June 28, 1978; and Jeffery David Klugh, born December 27, 1980. David has a son, Jonathan William Klugh, born May 23, 1997, from his marriage to Donna Marie Schmidt, of Somerset, NJ., and another daughter, Juia Celeste Klugh. David, Donna Marie, Jonathan, and Julia reside in Black Diamond Washington.

Notes for Thomas Terrance Klugh:

Educator (within his professional life at New York University Medical Center at Bellevue Hospital in New York City), writer, mystic-wanna-be, and more, Thomas wore many hats during his life. He attended college six different times before he finally finished up with a Master's Degree in Philosophy of Education from New York University. His Bachelor's Thesis was on "The History of Pulmonary Medicine From Greek Times to Present", while his Master's thesis was on "An Inquiry Pertaining to Philosophy and Science".

Thomas was employed over thirty years in the health care field in one way or another. He started as a porter mopping floors, then as a mail room clerk sorting mail and printing up the hospital census, then spent thirteen months working in a medical clinic while serving as a medic in the US Army, then upon his Honorable Discharge, as an aide in an emergency room, then as a Respiratory Therapist for sixteen years, and finally and presently as a Coordinator at a major medical center in New York City coordinating a Pulmonary Function Laboratory, where he performs Pulmonary Function Testing and Cardio/Pulmonary Exercise testing on people with every pulmonary dysfunction imaginable.

Thomas also taught limited pulmonary physiology to physicians as they go through their fellowship in the Pulmonary Division.

To date he has written numerous short stories, most between 1,000 and 4,000 words, one of which is a science-fiction story, another of which is a love story and is approximately 14,000 words, and one book, yet to be published, which totals almost 48,000 words and which is an Adam and Eve story entitled: "Sisyphus Revisited".

Thomas has always had more than an average interest in things of a spiritual nature. This is not to say he is a spiritual person, as he possesses all the frailties that all people do, and often times succumbs to them, but he has searched out the lessons of life that all the great teachers of spirituality have taught.

It is with no sense of foolishness or exaggeration that Thomas' desire to search for the meaning of life began with his birth. His claim is one that goes beyond that of all others in that he lays claim to remembering what he refers to as a most dreaded event. He says that birth isn't the wonderful event that well-meaning grandparents and uncles and aunts and friends make it out to be, but is one of the most horrific experiences that nature has forced upon us that we should all shudder at the thought of forcing anyone from suffering through its aperture. He was well into his twenties that the impressions of his birth followed him, and which intermittently manifested themselves as the most horrific of nightmares, nightmares that followed him into his waking time and that stayed with him for up to an hour before they departed.

Dreams have played a large part of Thomas' spiritual development. From walking up a small hill lined with trees and bushes, which gave off the most pleasant of feelings, to the stairway going up into the night sky, to the vaporous nectar handed to him by a loved one, to flying at will, to seeing white light, Thomas has always known that there is more to existence than is dictated by the senses, and that existence goes beyond that which can be perceived.

His active search for meaning officially began when he was seven years old and has continued to his present age of sixty. Though the family was raised in a quasi-Lutheran home, it converted to Methodism when they moved to a town where they lived closer to a Methodist church. Thomas' trek through the spiritual cosmos began with comic books at age seven, of which he collected over 1,000, to nightly readings of Plato and Aristotle at ages eight, nine, and ten, to Mariology (the apparitions at Lourdes, France, Garabadal, Spain, and Fatima, Portugal and Catholicism in general from ages ten to sixteen, to Fundamentalist Baptists and Pentecostals at ages seventeen through twenty-six, at which time he took a spiritual hiatus for four years, and read up on Jehovah's Witnesses and Seventh Day Adventists, as well as Eckankar - soul travel, then at the ages of thirty-one to thirty-nine he studied two forms of Hinduism: Gaudiya-Vaishnavism, the worship of Krishna, AKA the Hare Krishnas, and then Kashmir Shaivism, or the worship of Shiva. He went on to Zen Buddhism for two years, and also studied a bit of Islam. Two additional years were spent attending Native American drumming circles and attending a sweat lodge in the freezing, snowy month of February. Another hiatus lasted a few years. Lastly, life brought him to the end of his searchings by bringing him to Kabbalah - the mystical interpretation of Judaism, which he had actually been introduced to in his teenage years. Today Thomas feels comfortable with all his spiritual endeavors.

When given a card at the Kabbalah Centre in New York City which asked: "Why are you taking Kabbalah?" Thomas answered in his usual manner. He wrote:

- a) Tried everything else.
- b) No place else to go.
- c) Running out of time.
- d) All of the above.

And then he circled "d". When the secretary read it she said it brought tears to her eyes.

Still, he loves Gaudiya-Vaishnavism: the worship of Krishna, the most. "It's the most beautiful. I like to think that life has saved the best for last," he would say. This brings us back, in a way, full circle to this genealogy. Thomas believes it is necessary to know one's roots, both spiritual as well as physical. "If I could," he says, "I would trace our lives back to Adam and Eve." More likely, it will be to some cave man named, "Grog" who when he displayed some clever attribute, his fellow cave-mates pointed at him and grunted: "klug!".

150. Jason Thomas<sup>7</sup> Klugh (Thomas Terrance<sup>6</sup>, Carl Dean<sup>5</sup>, Herman (Sam) Levier<sup>4</sup>, William Francis<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, Samuel<sup>1</sup>) was born 14 Feb 1974 in At General Hospital in Binghamton, NY. He married Christie Lynn Maine 09 May 1997, daughter of Leo Maine and Beverly Puglisi. She was born 24 Jan 1974 in Binghamton, NY.

Notes for Jason Thomas Klugh:

Jason is the father of Ellis Sebastian Klugh and husband to Christie L. Klugh (Maine). He was born February 14, 1974 in Binghamton NY at 11:58am. He grew up in Binghamton NY, and attended middle school at West Middle and then continued with high school at Auburn High School in Auburn NY.

Jason joined the Army Reserves on December 31, 1991 and was in the Delayed Entry Program (DEP) until August 13, 1992. He waited until after graduating High School in June of 1992 before he actually left home for Basic Training. He went into Basic Training with his stepbrother Jordan G. Papkov. Both were Combat Engineers studying the art of demolition, bridge building and destruction of bridges with C-4, TNT, Crate Charges and other tactical means. He thought the army was great but he wasn't a morning person, and considered the slogan: "We do more before 7am than most people do all day" to be no joke. "If only the day had started at 10am," Jay would say, "I would have been in active duty from the start."

Jay entered Broome Community College (BCC) in Binghamton, NY in the Fall of 1993. Prior to this he had an apartment in Auburn, NY, but then decided to move back to Binghamton. Jason went into the Liberal Arts program at BCC because he had no idea what he wanted to do for a living. Liberal Arts, at the very least, would give Jay a more rounded view of many subjects. After getting more than half way through his associates degree Jay and a few friends moved to Charlotte, NC where he lived for a year doing odd jobs as a waiter, delivering furniture, cooking in a deli, and surveying properties. He combined this with his ongoing obligation to the Reserves and also attended UNC in Charlotte.

Jason met his future wife in the Carolina's after which they moved to Tampa, Fl. While living there for a year and a half and working at GTE Telecommunications, and still living out his military enjoyment, he re-enrolled in a Military Police Unit. This was a mere four days after he got married by a notary public/JOP. Jason was absent from his loving wife for a month. After this they moved back to Binghamton where he finished his AA degree, as well as look for better job opportunities.

To Jason, a life style of being constantly on the move is like a competitive sport. He strives to be on top of things and not let the many responsibilities get the better of him. For instance, he would love to be active duty, but now, after being out of service since June 2000 with an Honorable Discharge, he has a son, wife and family to look after. Jason likes simple things in life, from the Perseids meteor showers in August, to a sunset and a "gibbus" moon. Cool air and stress free days which come far and few in-between are in stark contrast to his life in Charlotte.

Like everyone, Jay is involved in the never-ending, "why in god's name am I here" scenario. He knows the meaning of life isn't to work for his employer of five years, or selling his company's product door to door. "I enjoy my job, enjoy interacting with people, but at whose expense?" Jay wants to be remembered, even after his demise. He understands and accepts that those who he is less intimate with will only remember him for a short time but he wants more to his existence than that. He knows that life goes on. "I seek independence and wealth," he says, though it isn't just for the amount of money he might someday acquire, but for the freedom to make his own decisions. He wants to be able to celebrate life and the family togetherness that he has come to love. He feels he missed that in his own adolescence and early years and so finds it comforting to experience it with his present family. "Being independent," he adds, "gives one the opportunity to travel, see the world, and most of all to be able to do it with the ones you love."

As mentioned before, Jay is also searching for the meaning of life. "At twenty-eight I have been given the opportunity to choose my own religion. Through my college days I was a Darwinist, which satisfied me completely. I still think I lean that way today, but with the understanding that Darwinist theory could coincide with the idea of spirituality and a godly being." Jay adds, "God gave us and our ancestors the ability to reason. The decisions they made lead our civilization - to where we are today. Consequently, our decisions will shape the future for our descendants." Jason believes the idea of "God" can be justified by faith, and adds, "The faith that when the light switch is turned off here, it is turned on in the afterlife."

Notes for Erin Michele Klugh:

Erin was born at General Hospital in Binghamton, NY on June 30, 1977.

She attended Woodrow Wilson Elementary School until the 4th grade. After that, in 1987, she moved upstate from Binghamton to Auburn, NY where she attended Herman Avenue Elementary School and completed 5th grade. She then attended West Middle School for grades 6th, 7th, and 8th and then went to Auburn High School until the middle of ninth grade.

"Auburn was a half good and half bad experience," says Erin. "I felt like I grew up the most in dealing with friendship problems and finding out who I was." It was during this time that Erin's Stepfather's job was transferred back down state to the "Triple Cities" (Binghamton, Johnson City, and Endicott).

"My family moved to Endicott, NY two days before the blizzard of 1993. I finished Senior High School at Union Endicott High School (UE) and graduated in 1996. My high school years were memorable but I wish I had enjoyed them more." Erin was happy her family made the move back to the Triple City area. She felt like it gave her a new beginning. Said Erin:

"I feel like I've grown up so much in this town, and I consider this my home town and would like to die in this county." Erin enrolled, after High School, in Broome Community College (BCC) a community college, where she completed an Associate's Degree in Individual Studies of Mental Health. This is also where, in 1997, she met her future husband, Scott Niles. Erin had every intention to obtain her degree in Psychology, but as life would have it, she changed paths after she graduated from BCC and continued school at SUNY Cortland in their teaching program.

"I completed two term's at Cortland," said Erin, "and then, in the year 2000, I decided to marry Scott Niles. Marrying Scott resulted in us having our wonderful son, Jacob Thomas Niles on January 27th 2001."

Presently, Erin has, once again, shown the tenacity that seems to be part of the family trait, which, when it comes to continuing education, is to try and try again as she has started yet another program at BCC in its two-year Radiology program.

"As well as being a part-time student, I am also enjoying every challenging moment being a mother to Jacob and a wife to Scott." Erin's ambition is endless, as she has set her mind down to the triple task of completing another degree, being a wife, a mother, and of course, working (hopefully) on another child.

More About Erin Michele Klugh:

Education: Graduated from Union Endicott High School. Went on to obtain an Associates Degree from Broome Community College (BCC) in Individual Studies for Mental Health. Presently working on another Associates Degree in Radiology - possibly going for a Bachelor's.

Occupation: Mother.

Notes for Scott Robert Niles:

Adopted.

Scott was born in California. His family moved to Owego, NY in 1984. It was here that he completed all of elementary, middle, and high school.

The Senior High School he attended was Newark Valley HS, where he graduated in 1993. After high school, i.e. from 1994 to 1997, Scott served in the U.S. Army in the 82nd Airborne. Scott left the army in 1997 and returned to Owego. It was during this time that Scott attended Broome Community College (BCC) and was working towards a degree in business. It was while he was at BCC that Scott met his future wife, Erin Klugh, and was offered a well paying job at Time Warner Cable, and so as with all life's changes, school was placed on a back burner to be resurrected at a future time.

Recently, Scott was promoted from field sales to a more senior position. A hard worker, Scott's ambitions are to be successful at his career, and to be as supportive as possible to his family.

More About Scott Robert Niles:

Adoption: Adopted.

Education: Graduated from Newark Valley High School. Still working on an Associates Degree.

Occupation: Time Warner cable television.

Children of Erin Klugh and Scott Niles are:

- 201 i. Jacob Thomas<sup>8</sup> Niles, born 27 Jan 2001 in Lourde's Hospital in Binghamton, NY.

Notes for Jacob Thomas Niles:

Jake's 13th great-grandfather came to America on the Mayflower. His last name was Howland, but I can't remember his first name! At least 7 generations on both sides of the family were born in California, which is rather unique. Jake was the first to be born outside of California. Another interesting fact is that Jake and Leah have two great-grandparents that are still alive! We are of German descent on the Shrader side and English on the Fox side. Robert L. Shrader is a nationally known technical writer and is listed in the Who's Who in the West.
